NOVEMBER 2015

Dear Friend,

This month we conclude our latest read through of the New Testament. This means that we shall also stop our reading of hymns from Hymns and Psalms on Sundays as these were being linked with the week's readings from the New Testament.

Our Old Testament readings continue to take us on a journey through the various different books of the prophets. As the month begins we finish our reading of Habakkuk and then move on to read the first half of the book of Ezekiel.

As we begin this month we have recently adjusted our clocks and we know that the darkness of winter is approaching. As we mentioned last month, we are blessed that even as the nights draw in and the days shorten, we still have the light of Christ to illuminate our lives.

And more than that, even though many people don't like to start thinking about it yet, we are now not far away from the celebration of the birth of Jesus and the incarnation of the Light of the World.

May Christ be our light in the darkness at all times.

In His name, Martyn
